Room 208

class news

Another great week in 208!

- I sent home Scholastic book orders this week. If you are interested in ordering anything, please go online and use class code GNLCB. You may also send in a paper form with a check. I'll close and send the order in on Sept. 30.
- Students took a day to complete a FAST test in Reading and Math. The information collected will help to guide individual instruction during the year. We will discuss this further during fall conferences!
- Please collect pop tops and box tops for Howe!

Conference time!

Thank You, Mrs. Ekrem

What's Happening in...

Literacy – We worked on asking thick, juicy questions about what we see and read and read some great stories. We practiced our writing workstations, and could choose from a variety of choices on how to use writing time wisely. Students also gave critical feedback and shared their work with others.

Math – We collected data and read a variety of graphs. We reviewed subtraction and continued practicing on ixl.com Science – We are experimenting with sound! We focused on tension and pitch. Ask your student if they can tell you if sound travels faster through air or through water! We continue to record our observations into Science notebooks.
